

SMALL ACTIONS, HUGE SOLUTIONS: REDUCING POVERTY FOR WOMEN AND GIRLS

Promoting gender equality and empowering women and girls is a multifaceted challenge that requires a comprehensive and integral approach. Addressing poverty, strengthening institutions, and incorporating a gender perspective into strategies are crucial components for eradicating poverty. We will examine poverty through these lenses: education, health, food insecurity, and climate justice.

Friday, March 15, 2024

4 - 6 p.m. ET

Held virtually via Zoom.

Registration is free but required.

Register Now

FORDHAM | Graduate School of Social Service

Discussion Topics and Speakers

Education

Eduard Bruwer, IHAN, South Africa

Health/Mental Health

Pia Riggiozzi, Professor of Global Politics at the University of Southampton, United Kingdom (UK); Co-Director of the Global Health and Policy Centre

Gabrielle Casper, Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology School of Medicine, Sydney

Food Insecurity

Camesha Grant, Ph.D., Vice President of Community Connection and Reach, Food Bank for New York City

Climate Justice

Julie Gafney, Ph.D., Assistant Vice President, Strategic Mission Initiatives Executive Director, The Center for Community Engaged Learning at Fordham University